Cursive epigraphy

There are several types of inscriptions:

1. Religious: azoras and aleyas of the Koran.
2. Praise for the figure of the sovereign.
3. Poems by Ibn al-Jayyab, Ibn al-Khatib and Ibn Zamrak. Some of them describe the building itself.
4. The motto of the Nasrid royal family: "Allah alone is victorious".

Kufic epigraphy

- Water: ponds in Muslim architecture serve several functions: they provide coolness in summer, they reflect the architecture and enlarge the space, and even fountains were designed to produce a pleasant murmur.

And above all, water is a symbol of well-being and wealth, as the Muslims came from the desert

- Gardens are another ornamental element that also provides aromas.
- Paintings: Although Muslim culture does not favour the representation of figurative images, in the Alhambra there are three vaults with painted scenes in the Hall of the Kings
